The rest of the Council Bluffs papers are a little off in stating that the fire department are painting the fire plugs red. It is the waterworks, the fire department having nothing to do with it.

The democratic organ has little to say about the platform adopted at the republican congressional convention. By its clippings and side remarks it seems to favor the platform, but objects to the candidate.

While Pearl street is being paved the street cars on that line are suspended. Many desire to reach the depot in the southern part of the city to get that fact, and wait for a car to come along, until they miss the trains. The public should bear the fact in mind.

J. A. Murphy, the Council Bluffs contractor, has just received another contract from Fowler Bros., of Chicago, for an additional building at the South Omaha stock yards. Mr. Murphy has just about completed two buildings at this place for the same firm.

To-day is the last day on which you can secure watches, diamonds, etc., in the tea and coffee at the Globe Coffee company's store, No. 404 Broadway, after which date an agent will be appointed and sell the goods wholly on their merits. Orders by mail dated not later than August 10 will be drawn from the stock containing the prizes. After that date no prize can be won.

The ordinance concerning common carriers is discovered to be far different from what many suppose. A number of teamsters employed by the day to haul malt for Mr. Geise have been complained of because they have not taken out the necessary license as common carriers. It is claimed that under the ordinance no teamster can thus hire out by the day for hauling anything except earth or building materials unless he first takes out a license.

Several colored strangers have been hauled up by the police and made to give an account of themselves, the police being anxious to get hold of the fellow who shot at Officer O'Brien. None proved to be the one wanted. The officers found one colored man sleeping in a box-car near the dummy depot, and as he started to run shots were fired to warn him to tarry. He tarried, but was soon discharged.

A Park Burned.
The city has a small but pleasant little park near Foster's. Some one, either by carelessness or mischievousness, lighted the dry grass, and the flames spread so quickly as to burn over the entire place. It is feared that the trees are so injured that they will die out. The city has not got around to improve this park much, but the fire will set back the place for some time.

Extremely Sensational Shooting—Matters at Manawa—The Great Tub Races—News and Varied Notes.

The Marcus Shooting.

An interesting case was put on trial in the superior court yesterday, it being that of Branz vs. Marcus. Last April Marcus, who is a resident of this city, and a property owner here as well as more, owned a clothing store in Grand Island. The first night after the opening, he slept in the store, together with a boy, and during the night he heard someone trying to break in. He called out, asking who was there, and threatening to shoot, but claims to have heard something about "money or your life," and became certain that it was a robber or a burglar. After calling out he did shoot. In the early morning he found that a man was lying at the door wounded. This man proved to be Branz, a farmer living there. It seems that Branz was on a spree, and in wandering about thought this was a saloon or eating house, and tried to get in out of the rain, seeing a light inside. He was too drunk to realize what he was doing, more than that, and evidently had no intention of committing burglary or of robbing anyone. He tried to open the door as a drunken man might in seeking shelter. The bullet from Marcus' gun had entered one eye, destroying its sight. It was thought for a time that Branz would die. He has not recovered fully, and never will. Besides the loss of the eye which the bullet struck, he has lost the sight of the other since then, and still suffers greatly. He is able to be in court, but is in fact in a deplorable condition. He now seeks to recover $5,000 damages from Marcus, which is the purpose of this suit. The evidence was introduced yesterday, and the jury will be charged this morning. Marcus was tried on the criminal charge some time ago, but acquitted. The result of this civil suit will probably be known today. Branz has for his attorneys C. M. Hart, of this city, and E. A. Gilbert, of York, Neb., while Marcus has as his attorney John N. Baldwin.

A Black Burglar.

The colored gentleman, giving his name as Billy Emerson, had his examination before Justice Schurz yesterday on the charge of burglary. The fact was developed that this fellow was seen at the K. C. house a day or so before the attempted burglary. Price Gibson testified to his sensational connection with the affair. He found that some one had just opened a window, and that the screen had been torn away. He discovered a man crouching down trying to hide, and grabbed him. The two had quite a tussle. The fellow begged him to let go, but young Gibson hung on and received a blow, which almost knocked him out of time. The fellow finally struggled away from him and ran off. He was tracked down the railway track, and at last was followed up and captured in company with another colored fellow about twelve miles south of the city. The other fellow pulled a revolver on the officer and a lively duel followed, and both men escaped in the brush. This one was a little later taken at Pacific Junction and brought back. Young Gibson identified him as the man whom he found in the house, and with whom he had the tussle. He was very positive about this. The colored man claimed that he was over in Omaha at the time of the attempted burglary, and that he could prove that he was in a gambling house there. He had no witnesses to support this claim, and as there were two witnesses who fully identified him, having seen him here at the time he said he was across the river, the justice concluded to bind him over to the grand jury. The fellow had evidently been in courts of justice before, and conducted his own case with a good deal of business for one so ignorant apparently in other matters. He will be obliged to wait in jail until December, and perhaps then take a term in the penitentiary. He professes to be a good deal of a hand to what became of his companion, who did the shooting. He says he happened to fall in company with him, but had never known him before. When the officer returned the fire, he concluded to get out of the way of the fellow who had fired. He struck for the brush, and the other colored man ran there too. He soon lost sight of him and had not seen him since.

Licking Liquor.

The war continues over the Avoca saloons. It appears that the saloon men of that place thought they would steal a march on the prohibitionists and on the 22nd of this month Bill Cuddy filed complaints against all the saloon men, charging them with violating the law, and at the hour of midnight the defendants appeared before Squire Hazen, and they were found guilty and fined $50 each. Their attorneys, Benjamin & Askwith, at once filed appeal bonds. When the saloon men were arrested the next day at the instance of the real prohibitionists, they laughed in their sleeves and declared that the midnight conviction was a bar to any such proceedings. The prohibitionists claimed that the cases brought before Squire Hazen were simply put up by the saloon men for the sake of thwarting genuine prosecutions. The cases were set for a hearing before Justice Williams, of Valley township. For two days one of these cases has been fought over, it being that of Oscar Hill. The justice held that the sleep-walking scene was a sort of farce and no bar to the present action. He found Hill guilty on two counts and fined him $50 on each. The prohibitionists were represented by Attorneys Jacob Sims, C. H. Converse and W. J. Trotter. The saloon men had their regular attorneys, Benjamin & Askwith. The battle is getting hot and the saloons in Avoca are reported as having been closed quite tightly for two or three days past. What the result will be when the storm is over, no one can tell.

Attempted Burglary.

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning as Officer Thomas, of the Merchants' police force, was about to enter the east end of the alley running from Fourth street just south of Broadway, he was spoken to by Hugh Oliver, the watchman at the mansonic building, and the sound of their voices apparently gave the alarm to a burglar who was at work on the rear of a building down the alley, for a noise was heard in that direction as if a box was falling. Officer Thomas ran down the alley, but the fellow had got the start and had disappeared in the darkness. Investigation revealed the fact that the rear window of J. M. Phillips' boot and shoe store, No. 413 Broadway had been forced up, and the shutter had been wrenched open. Mr. Sargent, who is one of the employees, was sent for, and the place thoroughly examined, but no stock was missed. It seems that the fellow had just begun work when the coming of the officer frightened him off.

Tub Race To-night.

There will be lots of sport at Manhattan beach to-night. A large number of Omaha people will be over to indulge in the bathing in Lake Manawa, and the tub races take place early in the evening. Any person who has never seen a tub race can hardly imagine the sport attached to one. Those who enter for the race are supposed to sit in an ordinary wash-tub without tipping it over while going over the entire course. Those who do get tumbled out unceremoniously are barred out, and everything goes. They can fill their opponent's tub with water or tumble him out, it being a "go as you please" race throughout.

Millinery at one-half off former prices at Bliss's.

Lozier Back.

The young man Lozier, whose capture here was made rather sensational, has returned from Kansas City, where he was taken by Special Agent Higgins, of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway. Lozier has been admitted to bail, and has returned to abide for a time with his wife and her parents near Parks' mill. It is understood that the company will use him to ferret out the others implicated in the railway ticket fraud. It is predicted that Lozier's case will not be pressed by the railway company.

J. J. Stelter, 595 Upper Broadway, will not be undersold. General store.

Organize a Boat Club.

The young men should organize a rowing association at once. It will take time to get in shape for a race, but in the meantime such an organization can do much to encourage and foster the sport. There should be some club to entertain the crews who will shortly be in the harbor to visit the lake, and give a race worth seeing. Who will attend to this? The boys ought to have a supper and nice social time the evening after the race. If there could be a boat club organized by that time it would be the most appropriate body to entertain the guests.

He Gave Him His Blessing.

St. Paul Globe: "Many thanks, my son," exclaimed a benevolent looking man, as a ragged little bootblack handed him a pocketbook which the former had dropped and the latter was returning. "Now let me see if everything is here," continued the man, as he opened the pocketbook and began an examination of its contents. "Railroad passes, receipts and money," said the boy, "here, just as I left it. What is your name, my little son?" "The kids call me 'Shenney Bob,' but 'tain't my name. Bob Miller's my name."

"Well, Robert, you are a very honest little man, and if you keep on you will become an ornament to society. Many thanks, Robert, for returning my pocketbook. My blessing be on you, my child." "Say, mister," said Bob, as the missionary started away. "Don't you go and get reckless like wid your blessin'. I ain't got no use for blessin's, anyhow. You ain't got 'em, are you? If you don't I'll buy 'em. Money ain't no object like you. Why, mister, I ain't stuck on my life the way you is on a quarter!"
